Tom/Rey –

I hope you are doing well. Earlier today, Sun Africa, a constituent company of yours, broke ground on a major investment in Angola.

This is part of a $650 million investment in what will eventually be seven solar power plants and the largest solar energy project in sub-Saharan Africa. More information can be found here.

Of note, the project:

- Will lessen Angolans' use of generators and eliminate the consumption of 1.4 million liters of diesel fuel per day;
- Will benefit around 1.2 million Angolan families;
- Is being financed without any Chinese financing (the main financiers are Swedish Export Credit Corporation (Sweden), K-Sure (South Korea) and DBSA (South Africa)).

I represent (and am registered under FARA for) the Government of Angola. We are very excited about the project and believe it is a great example of the growing relationship between the United States and Angola.

I wanted to (1) make you aware of the investment and (2) see if your boss would consider making a statement of support of the project. I would be happy to jump on a quick call to discuss or send over any information that would be helpful here. One option would be to retweet a tweet put out by the Angolan Embassy earlier today: (<https://twitter.com/EmbassyAngolaUS/status/1370030894170464258>).

Look forward to hearing from you,

Rory
