Dear Colin,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Colby,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Charles,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. "An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences," UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Dear Doug,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Dear Daniel,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Gabriella,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
   www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Hannah,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Dear Jon,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

---

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Obsa, Efrata

From: Coleman, Norm B.
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 6:59 PM
To: 'joe.bartlett@mail.house.gov'
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Joe,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Obsa, Efrata

From: Coleman, Norm B.
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 6:48 PM
To: 'john.drzewicki@mail.house.gov'
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear John,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Jonathan,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Jamie,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Obsa, Efrata

From: Coleman, Norm B.
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 6:50 PM
To: ‘john_noonan@cotton.senate.gov’
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear John,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Jason,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

---

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Dear Lauren,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Dear Luke,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Micah,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Obsa, Efrata

From: Coleman, Norm B.
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 6:56 PM
To: 'matthew_hickey@murkowski.senate.gov'
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Matthew,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Mark,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Dear Megan,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Obsa, Efrata

From: Coleman, Norm B.
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 6:52 PM
To: 'matt_rimkunas@lgraham.senate.gov'
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Matt,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Nic,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Nathan,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Piero,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Dear Robert,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Ryan,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. "An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences," UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

---

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Sebastian,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Obsa, Efrata

From: Coleman, Norm B.
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 7:01 PM
To: 'sarah.talmage@mail.house.gov'
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Sarah,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Wayne,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Obsa, Efrata

From: Dresser, Sammie on behalf of Zapien, Ivan
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 5:14 PM
To: alexander.brockwehl@mail.house.gov
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Alexander,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Alexandra,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio ([Ivan Zapien](https://www.hoganlovells.com/en US/About/People/Ivan-Zapien))

---

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Obsaf, Efrata

From: Dresser, Sammie on behalf of Zapien, Ivan
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 5:13 PM
To: brooke_stuedell@lujan.senate.gov
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Brooke,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee – with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Christian,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Obsa, Efrata

From: Dresser, Sammie on behalf of Zapien, Ivan
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 5:14 PM
To: caroline_wadhams@warner.senate.gov
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Caroline,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Obsa, Efrata

From: Coleman, Norm B.
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 6:46 PM
To: 'dan_burgess@blunt.senate.gov'
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Dan,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear David,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Obsa, Efrata

From: Dresser, Sammie on behalf of Zapien, Ivan
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 5:13 PM
To: erin.doty@mail.house.gov
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Erin,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. "An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences," U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: "The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen."

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Dear Emily,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Obsa, Efrata

From: Dresser, Sammie on behalf of Zapien, Ivan
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 5:12 PM
To: eliza.ramirez@mail.house.gov
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Eliza,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Joshua,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Louise,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Olivia,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Patrick,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” UN aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

All my best,

Norm
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Robert,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Sayanna,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemmed Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Obsa, Efrata

From: Dresser, Sammie on behalf of Zapien, Ivan
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 5:11 PM
To: travis.knight@mail.house.gov
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Travis,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Dear Wendell,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio [Ivan Zapien]

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
Obsa, Efrata

From: Dresser, Sammie on behalf of Zapien, Ivan
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 5:12 PM
To: zoe.oreck@mail.house.gov
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Zoe,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Obsa, Efrata

From: Dresser, Sammie on behalf of Zapien, Ivan
Sent: Friday, February 19, 2021 1:07 PM
To: leslie.zelenko@mail.house.gov
Subject: Latest Houthi Escalation in Yemen

Dear Leslie,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. "An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences," U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)

---

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com
This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Brian,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to share with you the latest developments from Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis continue to engage in deeply destabilizing activities that make it much more difficult to achieve a political solution to the conflict.

This week, the Houthis have pressed their military offensive to the city of Marib, which is controlled by the legitimate government of Yemen and where hundreds of thousands of internally displaced refugees are located.

As Reuters has reported, the United Nations has condemned Houthis for these hostilities and exacerbating the humanitarian crisis in Yemen. “An assault on the city would put two million civilians at risk, with hundreds of thousands potentially forced to flee - with unimaginable humanitarian consequences,” U.N aid chief Mark Lowcock said on Tuesday, urging de-escalation.

The Reuters article also quotes State Department spokesman Ned Price as condemning the Houthis for undermining the prospects for achieving a peaceful resolution to the conflict: “The Houthis’ assault on Marib is the action of a group not committed to peace or to ending the war afflicting the people of Yemen.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia seeks a political resolution to the conflict in Yemen in accordance with applicable UN Security Council Resolutions. The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is committed to working with UN Special Envoy Martin Griffiths and newly appointed US Special Envoy Tim Lenderking in order to achieve a negotiated settlement to the conflict.

Public statements from your Member of Congress in calling out the Houthis for their intransigence will send a strong message to the Houthis that will hopefully contribute to advancing the political process.

Thank you for your consideration.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Obsa, Efrata

From: Postmaster Postmaster <postmaster@hoganlovells.com>
Sent: Thursday, February 18, 2021 5:11 PM
To: Dresser, Sammie
Subject: [Postmaster] Email Delivery Failure

This is a delivery failure notification message indicating that an email you addressed to email address:
--- brian_marshall@cortezmasto.senate.gov could not be delivered. The problem appears to be:

--- Recipient email address is possibly incorrect

Additional information follows:
--- 5.1.1 User Unknown

This condition occurred after 1 attempt(s) to deliver over a period of 0 hour(s).

If you sent the email to multiple recipients, you will receive one of these messages for each one which failed delivery, otherwise they have been sent.