Dear Alexander,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Christian,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering."

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds."

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis' recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country's long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education."

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen's Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity."

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Colby,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis' recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Casey,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Chadd,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nationwide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don't endure unnecessary violence and suffering."

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds."

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis' recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country's long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education."

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen's Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity."

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Charles,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Caroline,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Dan,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Devin,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Doug,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Erin,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Hi Azi,

Please print these memo style and send them to me by 3pm today.

Thank you

---

From: Dresser, Sammie <sammie.dresser@hoganlovells.com>
Sent: Tuesday, August 31, 2021 2:59 PM
To: Kroll, Chase <chase.kroll@hoganlovells.com>
Cc: Obsa, Efrata <efrata.obsa@hoganlovells.com>; Fridman, Ari <ari.fridman@hoganlovells.com>; Maruggi, Elizabeth <elizabeth.maruggi@hoganlovells.com>
Subject: RE: Ivan's Batch - KSA Emails - USUN Amb. LTG on Yemen

Attached are the sent emails and the 3 vacation bounce-backs as well as the Spreadsheet w/notes.

Best,
Sammie

---

From: Kroll, Chase <chase.kroll@hoganlovells.com>
Sent: Tuesday, August 31, 2021 1:58 PM
To: Dresser, Sammie <sammie.dresser@hoganlovells.com>
Cc: Obsa, Efrata <efrata.obsa@hoganlovells.com>; Fridman, Ari <ari.fridman@hoganlovells.com>; Maruggi, Elizabeth <elizabeth.maruggi@hoganlovells.com>
Subject: Ivan's Batch - KSA Emails - USUN Amb. LTG on Yemen

Sammie –
Please see attached emails with FARA disclaimer to be sent from Ivan’s account.
I also attached the updated sheet of contacts.

Thanks,
Chase
Dear Emily,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)

---

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

---

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Eliza,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Gabriella,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
    www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Hussain,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Jon,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Joe,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Jon,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear John,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel:  +1 202 637 5440
Cell:  +1 651 894 3901
Fax:  +1 202 637 5910
Email:  norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Jonathan,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Jamie,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear John,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Louise,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)

---

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

---

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Liz,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Lauren,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Liam,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don't endure unnecessary violence and suffering."

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds."

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis' recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country's long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education."

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen's Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity."

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C.
Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Micah,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen's Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Wolteji, Azeb

From: Coleman, Norm B.
Sent: Tuesday, August 31, 2021 3:59 PM
To: matthew_hickey@murkowski.senate.gov
Subject: USUN Ambassador Linda Thomas-Greenfield on Yemen

Dear Matthew,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Marcos,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)

---

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

---

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C.
Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Mark,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis' recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen's Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Marty,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nationwide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis' recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country's long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen's Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Megan,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen's Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Matt,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

---

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Molly,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Nathan,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Wolteji, Azeb

From: Coleman, Norm B.
Sent: Tuesday, August 31, 2021 3:50 PM
To: ‘patrick.flood@mail.house.gov’
Subject: USUN Ambassador Linda Thomas-Greenfield on Yemen

Dear Patrick,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coelman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Piero,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

---

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Robert,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Ryan,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Sebastian,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Michelle,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen's Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Sayanna,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen's Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)

Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004-1109
Tel: +1 202 637 5600
Direct: +1 202 637 5613
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: ivan.zapien@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C.
Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Sarah,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Travis,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Twinkle,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Victoria,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Will,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Wayne,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis' offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering."

On the Houthis' refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds."

On the Houthis' recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis' recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country's long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education."

On the Houthis' blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen's Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- "We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity."

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All my best,

Norm

Senator Norm Coleman
Senior Counsel
Hogan Lovells US LLP
Columbia Square
555 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, DC 20004
Tel: +1 202 637 5440
Cell: +1 651 894 3901
Fax: +1 202 637 5910
Email: norm.coleman@hoganlovells.com
www.hoganlovells.com

This material is distributed by Hogan Lovells US LLP on behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, Washington, D.C. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.
Dear Zach,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)
Dear Zoe,

On behalf of the Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I would like to call your attention to important remarks made on August 23 by US Ambassador to the United Nations Linda Thomas-Greenfield at a UN Security Council Briefing on Yemen. The remarks may be viewed and read in their entirety here.

Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield reviewed the complexity of the situation on the ground in Yemen, but clearly cast the blame on the party most responsible for obstructing efforts by the United States, the United Nations, the Saudi-led Coalition, and other stakeholders to reach a peaceful solution: the Houthis, backed by Iran.

On the Houthis’ offensive in Marib, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Houthi offensive on Marib has stalled, but it has not become any less brutal. June was the deadliest month for civilians in nearly two years. This offensive is costly. We have all seen the images of Houthi missile strikes that killed women and children. We need, urgently, a nation-wide ceasefire, so that other areas of Yemen don’t endure unnecessary violence and suffering.”

On the Houthis’ refusal to come to the negotiating table in good faith, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “The Saudi-led coalition and Republic of Yemen Government have shown openness to a ceasefire. But the Houthis seem determined to continue their military campaign. This is a moment to change their minds.”

On the Houthis’ recruitment of children to fight in the conflict, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We also cannot lose sight of another heartbreaking dimension of this conflict: the abuses the Houthis continue to inflict on children. And I thank Henrietta Fore for raising these concerns. The United States is alarmed by the latest reports of the Houthis’ recruitment of thousands of children into military training and indoctrination camps. This threatens the country’s long-term stability. But more important, it is just plain wrong and gut-wrenching. Children are not warriors. This cannot continue as you heard from UNICEF. We must place children first and we must keep them safe allowing them to pursue their education.”

On the Houthis’ blocking a maritime salvage operation in order to prevent oil leaks from the FSO Safer, which has been moored off Yemen’s Red Sea coast, Ambassador Thomas-Greenfield noted:

- “We continue to have grave concerns over the state of the Safer tanker, as you have heard from other members today. With their delays and unreasonable demands, the Houthis have thus far squandered the opportunity the UN has afforded them to avoid an environmental and economic calamity.”

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia announced an initiative in late March to reach a nationwide ceasefire in Yemen and the Kingdom continues to support efforts to reach a comprehensive political resolution in Yemen. Unfortunately, the Houthis have refused to come to the negotiating table in good faith.
It is critically important that Members of Congress publicly condemn the Houthis for prolonging the needless suffering of the Yemeni people.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Ivan Zapien
Partner
Practice Area Leader – Government Relations & Public Affairs
See my bio (Ivan Zapien)