Government of the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela

Registrant had a meeting with the Solicitor General's Office on behalf of the foreign principal concerning the Supreme Court's February 19, 2016 order requesting the views of the United States on the pending certiorari petitions in the Helmerich & Payne litigation. The meeting included other agency officials as well, at the Solicitor General's discretion. On May 1, 2017, the United States Supreme Court ruled unanimously for the foreign principal concerning the appropriate pleading standard under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act and remanded the case to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit (the "DC Circuit") for further proceedings consistent with the Court's order. On October 31, 2017, the DC Circuit invited the United States to submit its views on the issues presented by the Supreme Court's remand. On December 13, 2017, Registrant had another meeting with the Solicitor General's Office and with personnel from the Civil Division of the United States Department of Justice concerning the DC Circuit's October 31 order. The February 2016 and December 2017 meetings with the Solicitor General's Office and other Justice Department personnel, as well as subsequent follow-up communications with the Solicitor General or other agency officials taken in the course of the Helmerich & Payne litigation, have been limited to the respective interests of the United States and the foreign principal in the litigation: the scope of foreign sovereign immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, and other legally related issues. While we believe that contacts with US Government officials regarding the aforementioned litigation qualify for the exemption under FARA section 613(g) for "persons qualified to practice law," we nevertheless have submitted FARA registration in case the nature of such contacts might be deemed to exceed the scope of the exemption.

The following chart reflects contacts undertaken on behalf of this principal.
