BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

Israel's Exports Running On Target— Benefitting American Businesses

It's business as usual reports Israel's Trade Commissioner to the U.S., and that's good news for many American businesses. Israel's exporting companies are fully operational with production and shipping running according to schedule, announced Meir Buber, Israel Trade Commissioner to the U.S.

"Our industries manufacturing products for export are key to our economic growth and therefore every effort has been made to operate as normally as possible," Buber said.

Israel's marketing and promotion activities in the U.S. are in full operation, with many of Israel's manufacturers currently exhibiting at national trade shows, including the Jewelers of America show, the National Shoe Fair, the Kosherfest Show and Vision Expo.

According to the Israel Ports Authority, all ports are operating at nearly peak levels and are providing normal services. The number of shipping cancellations has been negligible, and freighters are sailing according to schedule.

With regard to air freight, Buber said, cargo flights to and from Israel are proceeding as usual, with no surcharges or insurance add-ons from El Al.

"El Al, Arkia and CAL provide 80 percent of air freight service to Israel, so there is no problem of absorbing cargos that would have been carried by other airlines that cancelled services. At this time, El Al is adding flights as needed," the Trade Commissioner noted.

Cargo and vessels—either Israeli or non-Israeli—arriving and departing Israel are now eligible for insurance by the Israel Government at a special premium of .375 percent for a month or less.

In addition, all import and export services, including customs and other ancillary services for export (handling, customs, insurance and banking) are functioning at full capacity.
