ENGLAND'S South West

The Place to Locate in Europe

Leading US technology company Pall Corporation recently opened another European manufacturing operation: in England's South West. Pall already has two plants in England's South West, so that its European manufacturing capability is increasingly concentrated here.

Pall chose the area because of the skilled workforce, excellent labor relations, solid infrastructure and availability of financial incentives.

Of course, Pall's own successful experience in England's South West played a big part, as did the magnificent environment.
