THE BAHAMAS ANNOUNCES 2020 BOATING FLING SCHEDULE AND PERMIT FEES
Boaters will Have Quarterly and Annual Multiple-Entry Options in Advance of Boating Fling Season

Nassau – January XX, 2019 – The Islands Of The Bahamas begin just 50 miles off the east coast of Florida and sprawl across 100,000 sq. miles of the most beautiful water on the planet. Could there be a better place to go boating? No.

The Bahamas is paradise for boaters. For those who may not have ventured out toward the edge of the world yet, the annual Boating Fling program is a great way to gain experience and confidence, and updated boating permit options encourage boaters to become “regulars” around the islands.

Boating Flings, which are sponsored by the Bahamas Ministry of Tourism & Aviation, are like road trips but with lots and lots of water... and boats. A lead boat breaks the waves for the caravan of participants and a sweep at the rear of the flotilla ensures that no one gets left behind. Flings begin in Florida with a mandatory Captain’s meeting on Wednesday evening with departure on Thursday morning and return on Sunday. There is plenty of togetherness built into the program, but time on island is unstructured to allow freedom to fish, dive, explore or laze in the sun as preferred. There is one extended fling each year.

Dates announced for 2020:
June 10-14: Freeport, Grand Bahama Island
June 17-21, 24-29: Bimini
July 10-21: Extended Fling to Eleuthera
July 22-26, July 29-Aug 2: Bimini

Flings leave from Bahia Mar Yachting Center in Fort Lauderdale; dates are subject to change.

All vessels must have a valid cruising permit obtained through initial clearance and entry process. A new online option for paying for permits is expected for the new season.

The fees cover both a cruising permit and fishing permit, as well as the departure tax for up to three people. Each additional person will be charged a $20 departure tax. The fee is good for a second re-entry within a 90-day period.

Updated fees effective Jan. 1, 2020 are as follows:
Up to 34’: $150 for 3 months; $300 annually
35’ - 100’: $300 for 3 months; $600 annually
101’ - 149’: $500 for 3 months; $1,000 annually
150’ - 200’: $800 for 3 months; $1,600 annually
Over 200’: $1,000 for 3 months; $2,000 annually

For a stay longer than 12 months, special arrangements must be made with Bahamas Customs and Immigration.
There are marinas and resources throughout the islands. Bahamas.com offers ample resources on rules, regulations and tips for boaters. The Association of Bahamas Marinas also offers boaters convenient reservation and booking services available via call center, toll-free: 844-556-5290, or U.S.: 954-462-4591, or email reservations@bahamamarinas.com.

THE BAHAMAS CELEBRATES HIGHEST VISITOR ARRIVAL NUMBERS IN HISTORY

From Air to Sea, The Bahamas’ Tourism Business is Stronger Than Ever

NASSAU – January 23, 2019 – The Bahamas Ministry of Tourism & Aviation has exceeded a record-breaking seven million visitors in 2019. The Ministry attributes this historic success to data-driven, agile marketing, authentic storytelling, and aggressive PR, sales and airlift strategies. While the impacts of Hurricane Dorian are still felt, the hard work and dedication of Ministry partners have ensured that The Bahamas is still rockin’.

“It is with great pride and pleasure that I report The Bahamas’ strongest tourism numbers in history,” said Minister of Tourism & Aviation, Dionisio D’Aguilar. “We look forward to building upon the success of our marketing efforts and continuing the momentum in 2020 as we show the world that The Bahamas continues to be Open For Business and has so much to offer visitors.”

“This tremendous achievement would not have been possible without the hard work and dedication of the team behind the scenes at the Ministry of Tourism as well as our industry and agency partners,” said Director General, Joy Jibrilu.

RECORD ARRIVALS

The impact of Hurricane Dorian has not slowed The Bahamas’ tourism growth. Since 2009, the islands have continuously seen a steady increase in air and sea arrivals with an impressive 52% increase in just 10 years.

According to the Department of Immigration, Port Authority and Customs, 2019 was a record-breaking year for The Bahamas, with the highest number of arrivals by air and sea recorded in the country’s history. By the end of 2019, foreign air and sea arrivals had totaled more than 7.2 million, a 9.0% increase from 2018. Stopover visitors alone were the highest in recorded history at 1.78 million with American visitors accounting for 1.45 million.

AIRLIFT INCREASE

The Islands Of The Bahamas expect to see this trend of increasing arrivals by air continue as major airlines, including United Airlines, British Airways and Delta Airlines have increased their airlift to Nassau in 2020.

United Airlines has added Saturday-only non-stop service from Denver to Nassau. The service begins March 7, 2020 in time for the peak spring travel season and continues through August 15, 2020. Beginning March 29, 2020, British Airways will operate non-stop service between London Heathrow and Nassau every Tuesday. British Airways will now offer non-stop service between London and Nassau Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Delta Airlines has also expanded its airlift to Nassau this winter. Beginning December 21, 2019, the airline introduced daily nonstop flights from Boston Logan Airport to Nassau’s Lynden Pindling International Airport. Flights will run through April 30, 2020.

Following Hurricane Dorian, the Ministry also revealed a multi-channel campaign which reveals the resilience of the Bahamian people. Through authentic storytelling, the campaign shows travelers why The Bahamas is still rockin’ and urges them to add the destination to their 2020 travel plans.

Earlier this year, the Ministry debuted a new, multi-channel creative campaign featuring Bahamian-American rock legend Lenny Kravitz which reveals the authentic spirit of The Bahamas as a destination of adventure and discovery. Set to the lyrics of Kravitz’s hit song Fly Away, the television commercial and supporting marketing campaign capture his deep personal connection to The Bahamas, as well as the pure adrenaline rush of exploring the archipelago’s 100,000 square miles by boat and plane. Behind-the-scenes video follows Kravitz around his home base of Eleuthera, where he records music and embraces island time.

BAHAMAS MINISTRY OF TOURISM VISITS DENVER TO CELEBRATE LAUNCH OF UNITED AIRLINES NONSTOP AIRLIFT TO NASSAU

Ministry Representatives Meet with Top Travel Agents, Tour Operators and Media to Encourage Travel to The Islands Of The Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas, February 11, 2020 - Representatives of the Bahamas Ministry of Tourism and Aviation (BMOTA) traveled to Denver, Colorado to host events for over 20 media and influencers and over 140 of the area’s top travel agents. These meetings delivered the important message that The Islands Of The Bahamas are Still Rockin’ and easier to access than ever for Colorado travelers, thanks to United Airlines’ new nonstop airlift from Denver to Nassau.

Along with Bahamian hoteliers and tour operators, Director General Joy Jibrilu and Deputy Director General Ellison “Tommy” Thompson provided key destination updates, showing attendees why a record-breaking seven million travelers visited The Bahamas in 2019. Bahamian-inspired dishes and cocktails and performances from Junkanoo dancers also gave guests a taste of the Bahamian culture.

The BMOTA leaders at these events emphasized that The Bahamas is open for business and ready to welcome visitors for a tropical getaway across the islands. Grand Bahama Island and The Abacos have celebrated a number of reopenings since Hurricane Dorian hit the two northern islands in September 2019.

“The Bahamas is very excited for travelers to experience the islands’ adventurous activities that cannot be found in the mountains of Colorado,” said Director General Joy Jibrilu. “The beautiful sun, sand and sea are now just a short airplane ride away.”

For the first time ever, travelers from the Denver-area can take advantage of non-stop flights to Nassau, The Bahamas just in time for spring 2020 travel. Beginning March 7, 2020, United Airlines will be launching a Saturday-only nonstop service between Denver International Airport (DEN) and Lynden Pindling International Airport (NAS) in Nassau. The flight will suspend during the off-peak travel season beginning in August 2020 and commence again on October 21, 2020 on an annual basis.

To reinforce the enduring beauty, warmth and adventure of these islands, the BMOTA debuted its new multi-channel, creative brand campaign, Still Rockin’, to entice travelers to visit The Bahamas now.

As a follow up to the BMOTA’s Fly Away campaign, which debuted in February 2019, Still Rockin’ once again features Bahamian-American rock legend, Lenny Kravitz. The television commercial and supporting marketing efforts capture Kravitz’s deep personal connection to The Bahamas, as well as the authentic spirit of the Bahamian people in the wake of Hurricane Dorian.

BAHAMAS MINISTRY OF TOURISM & AVIATION, IN PARTNERSHIP WITH COUNTRY’S TOURISM READINESS AND RECOVERY COMMITTEE, ANNOUNCES PLAN FOR REOPENING TOURISM SECTOR

Bahamas Preparing to Resume International Tourism on July 1 with New Health & Safety Protocols in Place

NASSAU, Bahamas, June 2, 2020 – The Bahamas Ministry of Tourism & Aviation, along with the Tourism Readiness and Recovery Committee, a group comprised of public and private sector partners, announced today a collaborative plan for re-opening the country’s borders and tourism sector, as well as the resumption of international commercial travel starting July 1. A press conference provided details of the “Tourism Readiness and Recovery Plan” to be used as an approved, comprehensive guide of health and safety protocol to be followed consistently across the country.

From procedures pertaining to entering and departing The Bahamas via airports and seaports, to a Clean & Pristine certification program implemented across hotels, restaurants and other consumer-facing tourism entities and touchpoints, the plan outlines extensive health and safety protocols that will be enforced throughout The Bahamas to mitigate risks for all visitors and residents alike.

“Our top priority has and will always be our commitment to the health and wellbeing of our residents and visitors” said Bahamas Ministry of Tourism & Aviation Director General Joy Jibrilu. “We must remember that we are living in a new normal in the wake of COVID-19 and a lot is going to change across the tourism sector. We are putting an even greater emphasis on making sure The Bahamas is safe and clean for everyone, and look forward to once again providing travelers with the tropical experience our islands are known for.”

A Phased Approach

The Bahamas’ tourism dependent economy will gradually come back online, following a strategic, phased approach that ensures critical health and safety protocols are being adhered to, and that the Health sector remains well equipped and ready to respond as necessary.

- Phase 1, beginning on June 15, will allow for international boaters, yachters and private aviation to return to the destination.
  - These smaller special interest groups will allow a more controlled segment to test the country’s new measures.

  Also, during this phase, commercial airlines will be allowed to bring in Bahamian citizens, legal residents, home-owners qualifying for economic permanent residency, or the immediate family members or significant others of any of these groups.
  - All returning persons will continue to have to register at a Bahamas embassy or consulate and obtain a COVID-19 test with a negative result.
  - It is anticipated that during this period of time there will be a reduced flight schedule as airlines begin adding The Bahamas to their schedules once again.

Additionally, during Phase 1 hotels will re-open for staff to return to work and put in place all the measures required to ensure they are ready to welcome guests at the onset of Phase 2.
• Phase 2, beginning July 1, allows for the resumption of international travel, including:
  o Commercial airlines, both international and domestic o Hotels and vacation rentals, inclusive of Airbnb and HomeAway
  o Transportation ranging from taxis to jitneys and buses

The timing of the other phases and sectors will be announced shortly.

What Travelers Should Expect
Travelers should expect to follow The Bahamas’ “Healthy Traveler Campaign” that encourages both visitors and residents to continue practicing social distancing measures, regularly wash hands or use hand sanitizers, and pack appropriate PPE such as face masks, just as they would their swimsuits and sunscreen.

At airports and seaports, temperature screenings for all incoming visitors will be conducted by healthcare personnel. Travelers will be required to wear a face mask in any situation where it is necessary to enforce physical distancing guidelines, such as when entering and transiting air and sea terminals, while navigating security and customs screenings, and at baggage claim. When departing, flights will be scheduled to every other gate to provide as much distance between flights as possible, and greater time will be provided for boarding to ensure that physical distancing can be maintained.

In addition, several new procedures will be present throughout the on-island experience, including:

• Accommodations:
  o Hotels, resorts and vacation rentals will enforce extensive health and safety protocols like enhanced cleaning for guest rooms, public spaces, high touch point areas on frequent, regulated schedule
  o Hand sanitizer and disinfectant wipes will be readily available across properties
  o Employee health monitoring and temperature check points will be enforced
  o A limited number of guests will be permitted in elevators at one time
  o Unnecessary literature in guest rooms will be eliminated

• Taxis and Independent Cars:
  o Passengers and drivers should wear face masks at all times throughout their journey.
  o Vehicles must reduce the maximum number of people by 50% (sedans can carry up to two persons and SUVs up to four persons) and passengers should not ride in the front seat.

• Excursions, tours, local attractions and shopping:
  o Businesses must establish a maximum number of guests and limit the duration of each guest visit to allow for social distancing.
  o When possible, guests will be encouraged to use personal gear (such as snorkeling gear) and businesses will have items available for purchase.
  o Guests will not be allowed to touch products unless with the intent to purchase and cashless sales will be encouraged.
- Beach chairs must be arranged to allow six feet of social distancing between family units.
- A regular cleaning timetable and checklist must be established, reviewed, and maintained.

- Vessel and Ferry Operations
  - Staff must wear a water-repellent or marine grade face mask during all passenger interactions and where other social distancing measures are difficult to maintain.
  - A maximum number of passengers permitted on-board will be reduced by 50% and passenger seating may be assigned to ensure proper distancing.
  - Vessel sanitizing must take place before any passenger embarks the vessel and between all passenger exchanges. All high touch surfaces must be constantly and consistently cleaned during passage and at the end of each day.

- Restaurants, Food & Beverage Services
  - Buffets will be discontinued until further notice. All meals must be single or prepackaged.
  - Businesses must utilize disposable menus or offer on monitors or static display boards.
  - Staff must wear PPE (disposable mask and gloves).

Reopening of borders will continue to be monitored and guided by The Bahamas government and health officials. Dates are subject to change based on COVID-19 trends, if there is a deterioration in improvement or if government and health organizations deem these phases unsafe for residents or visitors.

The Bahamas Ministry of Tourism & Aviation believes it is an absolute baseline requirement for consumers to have a comfort level that The Bahamas is a safe and healthy destination to visit, and the ultimate goal is for that to remain the case. THE BAHAMAS MINISTRY OF TOURISM AND AVIATION HOSTS VIRTUAL SALES PROGRAMS AROUND THE WORLD TO ATTRACT TOURISM

NASSAU, Bahamas - June 9, 2020 - The Bahamas Ministry of Tourism and Aviation has been hosting a series of virtual sales missions in the U.S. and Canada during the entire time of quarantine in an effort to continue promoting The Islands Of The Bahamas and keeping the destination top-of-mind for not only the travel trade but other business partners and suppliers.

Without the ability to host face-to-face interactions to which the sales teams were accustomed, the Ministry of Tourism quickly pivoted to launching and participating in online events such as webinars, virtual travel shows, virtual trip simulations and live social media sessions.

As part of a strategic effort to share openly about The Bahamas’ road to recovery, the BMOT brought together all of its international partners in the US and Canada for two days of virtual meetings hosted by Director General Joy Jibrilu. These meetings were widely welcomed by the partners as anticipation grew for the return to ‘new normal’ business.

"While grappling with the effects of COVID-19, all travel was put on hold", said Director General Jibrilu, “but we remained committed to providing our travel suppliers, travel agent communities, key meeting planners and destination wedding planners, flying ambassadors, boating community and all of our other business partners with the resources and information they needed to assure new and returning guests, we would be ready once the world was ready to travel again. Now, more than ever, we need to show our partners just how important they are since we will be calling upon them to help bring tourists back to our shores, the moment it is safe to do so.”

The sessions received rave reviews and a number of our partners followed up with notes of thanks to the team for being accessible and transparent in the face of incredible circumstances. Bob Duglin, Vice President of the International Membership & Host Agencies for the American Society of Travel Advisors (ASTA), a leading global advocacy group for the travel trade industry said, “It was very uplifting to hear from Director General Joy Jibrilu that The Islands Of The Bahamas will be safely opening soon to travelers from North America; getting to The Bahamas is so easy with nonstop flights from the U.S. - people can get from their home to the beach in a matter of hours.”

Others like Elvi Cal, VP Product Development, Travel Brands, Canada said “Thanks so much for extending the invitation to today’s presentation. Joy did a great job in explaining the BTO’s plans and the different phases of reopening. Thrilled to see BTO very proactive and already thinking of marketing this fall.”
The 'next normal' as everyone is coining this moment in time has accelerated the Ministry's efforts in further developing and leveraging digital resources and platforms that help to reach and engage its target audiences. Many advances have been made already and the global teams are especially proud of those resources that allow the destination to export product immersive experiences and deepen customer engagement virtually.

- JetBlue will resume daily service between New York (JFK) and Nassau as well as Fort Lauderdale and Nassau on July 2
- Delta Airlines will be resuming its twice daily Atlanta to Nassau service July 2
- United Airlines announced its daily Houston to Nassau and Newark to Nassau service will resume July 6 while Saturday-only Denver to Nassau service will resume July 11
- American Airlines will resume daily flights between Charlotte and Nassau; Miami and Exuma; Miami and Eleuthera and twice daily flights between Miami and Nassau on July 7

Additional airlift resumptions are expected to be announced in the coming weeks. Travellers should check with airlines directly for details on recommencement of service and any protocols for travel.
This July 1 tourism re-entry builds on and supports existing government rules and regulations, which already allows for the resumption of travel for international boaters, yachters and those traveling on private aviation as well as inter-island domestic travel for Bahamian citizens and residents. Phase 3, beginning July 13, allows for the reopening of attractions, excursions and tours. Phase 4, beginning July 27, allows for vendors (including straw vendors) and jet ski operators to resume operations.

Once on island, travellers should expect to follow The Bahamas’ “Healthy Traveler Campaign” that encourages both visitors and residents to continue practicing social distancing measures, regularly wash hands or use hand sanitizers, and pack appropriate PPE such as face masks, just as they would their swimsuits and sunscreen.

A Certification Agency has been established - representing a collaboration between the Ministry of Tourism, Ministry of Health, and other regulatory agencies - to enforce a Clean & Pristine certification program across the islands. All tourism related, customer-facing entities in The Bahamas must verify they have in place and are adhering to the Government approved health and safety guidelines to receive Clean & Pristine certification. Adequate signage outlining policies will be clearly displayed at all locations helping to guide staff and visitors. Travellers are encouraged to visit direct business websites prior to booking or traveling to ensure they are aware and comfortable with the policies they will need to abide by. Additional details about on-island protocols can be found at www.bahamas.com/travelupdates.

Reopening of borders will continue to be monitored and guided by The Bahamas government and health officials. Reopening dates are subject to change based on COVID-19 trends, if there is a deterioration in improvement or if government and health organizations deem these phases unsafe for residents or visitors.

The Bahamas Ministry of Tourism & Aviation believes it is an absolute baseline requirement for consumers to have a comfort level that The Bahamas is a safe and healthy destination to visit, and the ultimate goal is for that to remain the case. THE BAHAMAS MINISTRY OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS UPDATES BORDER CONTROL
AND QUARANTINE MEASURES FOR PERSONS COMING FROM SELECTED COUNTRIES

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Nassau, Bahamas - March 6, 2020 - The Bahamas Ministry of Foreign Affairs wishes to advise that recent reports from the World Health Organization (WHO) indicate that the COVID-19 virus has now spread to more than seventy-five (75) countries. At least, forty-seven (47) of these countries have ten (10) cases or less. Some are reporting their first cases. Significantly, however, there is a prevalence of cases emerging in a few selected countries. According to the Director-
General's 4th March 2020 Briefing, almost 90% of those cases are from three countries: Iran, South Korea and Italy.

The data is compelling and out of an abundance of caution, the Government of The Bahamas has decided to implement border control and quarantine measures for persons coming from those countries. Effective immediately any non-resident who has visited South Korea, Iran or Italy in the last twenty (20) days will be denied entry into The Bahamas. These countries will be added to China, for which, we implemented such measures on January 30th, 2020. As such, Bahamian citizens and Residents returning from all four (4) jurisdictions will now be subjected to quarantine measures for a maximum of fourteen (14) days. Non-residents currently en route to The Bahamas from these jurisdictions will be subjected to the same protocol for returning citizens and residents.

While there remains no reported or confirmed cases of COVID-19 in The Bahamas, at this time, the Government of The Bahamas is taking extra precaution to protect the safety and health of our residents and visitors. This new advisory is part of the government’s enhanced effort to address this public health threat.

The pristine man-made waves are suitable for beginner, intermediate and advanced surfers. This adrenaline-pumping sport will leave you on a high all day!

Hi x,

Wales is no stranger to exhilarating outdoor adventures – including the world’s fastest zipline, the world’s first inland surfing lagoon, coasteering the coasts, stargazing, hiking or biking at Brecon Beacons and more. And to kick off Visit Wales’ 2020 Year of Outdoors, the destination welcomed the sport growing in popularity – efoil a one-of-a-kind electric hydrofoil surfboard adventure in the island of Anglesey.
Anglesey is the only place in the UK with an efoil school, making it the only place you can experience it in the UK without actually owning an efoil. As you may know, efoils enable riders to feel as though they are flying above the water on a uniquely silent and smooth journey.

FoilRide is now open for bookings at www.foilride.co.uk for the traveler looking to crank up their adventure game this year.

Please find full press release, video and images here should this be a fit for anything you are currently working on. I’m happy to share additional information on the destination i.e. where to stay, how to get there, etc.

Additionally, if you’re interested in visiting Wales to experience the Year of Outdoors and try the efoil experience in Anglesey out yourself, I’d love to curate an individual press trip for you.

Let me know if you have any questions at all.

Thanks,

Hi XX,

As you prepare for a weekend of binge-watching the second season of Netflix’s latest cult-class, Sex Education, I wanted to share the series’ scenic filming locations across Wales. The country has also been featured in many notable TV shows and films, including the upcoming The Voyage of Dr. Dolittle starring Robert Downey Jr, as well as Harry Potter and The Deathly Hallow Pt. 1 & 2, Doctor Who, Robin Hood and more.

Please see a set-jetting itinerary to Wales to inspire your reader’s next trip across the pond.

• Sex Education x The Wye Valley – Starring Gillian Anderson and Asa Butterfield, Sex Education was shot in The Wye Valley. Known for its gorgeous rural roads that weave through sweeping landscapes, unspoiled market towns and stunning gardens, The Wye Valley offers visitors the opportunity to step away from the hustle and bustle of nearby cities. Stop by the University of South Wales’ Caerleon Campus to see where scenes at the Moordale Secondary School were shot.

• Dolittle x Anglesey – Known for being the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge’s first home after their marriage in 2013, Anglesey will also be featured in Robert Downey Jr.’s Dolittle, which hits theatres this Friday, January 17. The film, which also stars Emma Thompson, Antonio Banderas and Welsh actor Michael Sheen, includes the stunning Britannia Bridge over the Menai Straight.

• Harry Potter x Freshwater West Beach – Located on the coast of Pembroke, Freshwater West Beach was featured in Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows where it was used as the backdrop for Dobby’s Shell Cottage and burial site. Although the cottage has since been taken down, you can still walk in Harry, Hermione and Ron’s footsteps. It also appeared in Ridley Scott’s Robin Hood starring Russell Crowe and Kate Blanchett, where the beach was used for the fighting scenes in the film.
• Doctor Who x Cardiff – Located in Cardiff, The National Gallery and Museum of Wales has been featured numerous times in BBC’s long running sci-fi show Doctor Who. While in Wales’ capital city, take a visit to the famous Cardiff Castle where hit TV shows including Doctor Who and Sherlock have both filmed.

Please let me know if this is of interest and I’m happy to share more high res images and additional information.

Hi XX,

Before the venue, the flowers, the invites, the seating arrangement and everything else, comes the proposal. The whirlwind of wedding planning closely follows that first acceptance of the engagement ring, making this life changing moment something precious to share together, before all the busy preparation.

As part of its Year of Outdoors, Wales’ rolling valleys, epic mountains and endless coastlines are already rich in heritage and stories from the past, awaiting couples intent on a perfect proposal and looking to their future.

• Lose the rest of the world, lakeside - Lake Vyrnwy is cocooned in 24,000 acres of lush green forest brimming with beautiful birds and wildlife. Although this secluded and enchanting lake is slightly outside of Snowdonia National Park, on its east side, it still enjoys breath-taking views on to the dramatic mountainscape.

Ambling along the 12 mile lakeside road hand in hand is a perfect precursor to finding just the right spot, getting down on one knee and sharing a special moment with the ancient woodlands and waters. Where to Stay: Lake Vyrnwy Hotel and Spa

• Propose under the eye of the patron saint of lovers - Magical Llanddwyn Island, off the west coast of Anglesey, is famed for romance, as the historic home to St Dwynwen: Wales’ patron saint of lovers. Legend has it that the eels of Dwynwen’s Well, on the island, can even predict whether a relationship is going to be a long term success, so it may be worth consulting them before asking the big question. Where to Stay: Berwyn, Anglesey

Couples come to enjoy views that stretch across the Menai Straits to the inspiring peaks of Snowdonia, leave their footprints across Llanddwyn’s golden sand dunes and make friends of the red squirrels at home in the nature reserve.

• Fit for a Fairytale - Overgrown with ivy, romantic Dinefwr Castle holds a special place in the hearts and minds of the Welsh, as part of the country’s own royal heritage. As well as the history books, it might also make a page in many couples’ own love story, as the fairytale-esque setting for a wedding proposal, with views across the enchanting Tywi Valley. [Where to Stay: The Cawdor, Llandeilo]

Provided the answer is yes, newly-engaged couples interested in following in the footsteps of kings and queens might want to visit nearby Dolaucothi Gold Mines and pan for the same gold used in the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge’s wedding rings. If it’s good enough for Wills and Kate...

Let me know if any of the above is of interest and I’m happy to provide more information.

Best,
Libby

Visit Wales Curates Five 2020 Global Outdoor Travel Trends

Trend report predicts global outdoor travel trends ahead of Wales’ 2020 Year of Outdoors

NEW YORK, NY – November 6, 2019 – In anticipation of its Year of Outdoors, launching in January 2020, Visit Wales has partnered with a leading university and outdoor travel experts and adventurers to reveal five global outdoor travel trends to look out for next year. The trends are increasing in prominence across the world and emerging in Wales in innovative and creative ways.

The Let the Outdoors In: Global Outdoor Travel Trends 2020 report has been developed in collaboration with Pride of Britain winner Benjamin Clifford, who runs an adaptive surf school in South Wales, former Welsh rugby international and adventurer Richard Parks and leading adventure writer and Wanderlust journalist, Phoebe Smith.

The report provides analysis from a range of experts, exploring important global themes such as how women engage with the outdoors, the growing connection between the outdoors and food tourism and the impact of outdoor activities on mental health, human interaction and loneliness.

During the Year of Outdoors visitors to Wales will be encouraged to explore its national parks, mountains, coastline and UNESCO World Heritage Sites, and discover how the outdoors has shaped Welsh culture and identity, and has inspired poets, writers and artists for centuries.

The trends have been inspired by a range of innovators from the tourism industry within Wales. From the outdoor chill swimming group, the Bluetits Swimmers, which started in Pembrokeshire and has now expanded across Wales and beyond; to Fforest, a sustainable outdoor hotel which is designed to merge with the natural surroundings. It has also involved leading Professor of Performance Psychology at Bangor University, Tim Woodman.
“During our Year of Outdoors we will be offering visitors the opportunity to experience the outdoors like never before, emphasising the important link between the outdoors and our well-being, and inviting visitors to experience our world-class outdoor offer,” said Jason Thomas, Director of Culture, Sport and Tourism, Welsh Government.

One of the trends featured in the report is Walking it Out. Walking is one of the most popular outdoor activities in Wales, embodied by products such as the Wales Coast Path and Offa’s Dyke Path.

In conjunction with Ramblers Cymru, the report details how against a backdrop of social media, stress at work and geographical isolation, walking in the outdoors to connect with others and improve human relationships, will be a key trend to watch in 2020.

2020 is set to see the launch of a host of new outdoor experiences in Wales, including Slate Mountain Lodge; a new glampsite that offers a beautiful location in a rugged landscape and Spirit Cymru, which will connect chapels and churches in West Wales through unique cycle tours and overnight stays in remote historic church and chapel buildings.

- The full trend report is available to download here.

Top Five Outdoor Travel Trends for 2020

1. Women in the Outdoors

The outdoors: it’s everything that’s not indoors, and it should be open and accessible to all kinds of visitors. In fact, representatives from the tourism industry have found that the outdoors hasn’t always been enjoyed to its greatest advantage by women. In 2020, that’s set to change as more women embrace the benefits of outdoor adventure activities – and dispel stereotypical images of the participants in outdoor activities.

Sarah Mullis is from the Bluetits chill swimmers, which started in Pembrokeshire and is growing in popularity in Wales and beyond. She says: “I used to associate the outdoors with cycling, running and competitive men in lycra, but chill swimming changed that for me. The women we swim with – because although we do welcome men, and love it when they come along, the group is predominantly women – have all sorts of things going on in their lives: cancer treatment, relatives to care for, depression and the menopause to name but a few. But when we all get together and go for a swim, our problems seem that little bit smaller and more manageable.”

2. Walking it Out

The positive effects of walking on both physical and mental health have long been recognised. But in 2020, a new way of understanding the benefits of walking while travelling and in our everyday lives is unfolding. Stressful lifestyles, hectic work schedules and isolation from friends and family are recognised as factors in causing loneliness and disconnection. As a result, walking in the outdoors to connect with others in a unique way made possible by the outdoor environment and escape from technology, is on the rise.

Jacky Cross of Meirionnydd Ramblers says: “Mental health problems affect one in four of us, yet many people are still afraid to talk about them. Walking together allows us to open up, strengthen existing relationships and create new friendships. It brings laughter, inspiration and adventure, especially for those of us who might be feeling lonely.

3. Surfing for the Psyche

Surfing has always been known to demand bravery, fearlessness and physical ability but as we head into 2020, experts are starting to better understand its connection to opening up to vulnerability and building resilience which can be taken into everyday life.

In gaining a sense of control and influence over their emotions and the situation, surfers of all abilities can learn to cope more effectively with difficult situations elsewhere in their lives. A benefit that lower-risk sports are simply unable to offer.

Tim Woodman, professor of performance psychology at Bangor University, comments: “Taking part in outdoor activities that include a perceived physical risk provides significant and long-lasting psychological benefits. Emotions arise that individuals have to control in order to perform the activity. It forces them to deal with a turbulent state of mind, often led by fear.

“Our most recent research shows that it is specifically the risk element in this type of sport that helps people develop their self-esteem, because they learn to adapt to an ever-changing environment. As such, it is a great training ground for life.”

Benjamin Clifford, founder of Surfability UK, adds: “Each wave is different and the sea is always in motion – much like life – so people have to practice the skill of being in the moment and connected with their bodies in order to surf.”

4. Adventure for the Senses

In the face of increased working hours and higher stress levels, more and more visitors want their time outdoors to provide them with a new type of challenge and a greater sense of fulfilment. 2020 is set to see more travellers moving away from routine outdoor breaks, and opting instead for adrenaline-fueled adventures. This has produced a new generation of daredevil explorers, keen to reassess what they can take from the outdoors to create a sense of balance in their busy lives.

Andrew Hudson from Zip World, home to the longest zip line in Europe and the fastest in the world, says: “Often, those people who come to Zip World for the first time underestimate the real impact it will have on them. Zip lining is one of the most accessible adrenaline activities – everyone from children to grandparents can take part. But when they do, they slide into a totally new perspective on life and achieve a true escape from the daily grind.”
5. Eating Natural

In 2020, “field to fork” is an ideology that will have more of an influence over food tourism than ever before. Knowing where ingredients come from is becoming more of a priority for an increasing number of ‘food tourists’ who want to link what they eat to the outdoors, where it begins its journey to our plate.

Now the connection between food and the outdoors is being taken to a new level. Where hyper-local sourcing and foraging may once have been the preserve of experts, visitors can now literally take matters into their own hands by taking part in foraging breaks. Not only are food fanatics seeking holidays where they can eat and source food from the outdoors, they are finding unique and beautiful locations to eat in the elements, furthering their connection to the land where their food came from.

“Growing and eating your own food is a great pleasure, as well as foraging and gathering food in the outdoors. We encourage people to learn how to identify edible plants, and forage for wild and natural food: mushrooms, herbs, shellfish, seaweed, and lots of pure fresh air on the side,” said Sian Tucker from Fforest outdoor hotel.

As you know, this year, Wales marked 2020 the Year of Outdoors as a way to invite the world to skip those over-populated destinations and discover all that Wales has to offer, outdoors – from unplugging and exploring sleepy villages, rolling mountains, untouched valleys and coastal pathways to living like royalty amongst the destination’s 600+ castles to visiting the sites of today’s most popular tv shows like The Crown or Sex Education.

If you aren’t familiar with Wales or want to deep-dive into the destination, this is a great opportunity to learn more about what makes the country unique, how assessable it actually is, press trip opportunities and what’s new in 2020 - from an exciting lineup cultural festivals and events to new developments and more.
Additionally, if you are not available either of the above-mentioned days, Mike is also available the morning of Jan. 27 and we’d be happy to schedule some time then.

Please let me know what time/location works best for you.

Let me know of any questions at all.

Best,

XX
