UNITED STATES UNITED IRELAND

Lá Fhéile Pádraig faoi mhaise daoibh - Happy Saint Patrick's Day to you all

Have you seen the news?

In newspapers coast-to-coast, Irish America is working together to spread St. Patrick's Day cheer, to call on the Irish Government to plan, prepare, and become persuaders for Irish Unity, and to urge the establishment of an inclusive Citizens' Assembly.

People all over the country are waking up, opening the paper and learning more about this historic moment and the need for the Irish and British Governments to agree on a date for the Unity Referendums.

The message is the result of a collaboration between the Ancient Order of Hibernians, The Brehon Law Society, Friends of Sinn Féin, the Irish American Unity Conference, the James Connolly Irish American Labor Coalition, the Ladies Ancient Order of Hibernians, and the Knights of the Red Branch.

The full message reads:

We welcome the visit of Michelle O'Neill, First Minister of Northern Ireland, to Washington DC.

The first United Irishman in history to serve as First Minister.

The peaceful reunification of Ireland is a shared vision of Irish America. It is now possible in our time.

The Irish peace agreements remain an American foreign policy success that our political leaders must continue to protect and safeguard.

Irish America encourages the Irish Government to plan, prepare, and become persuaders for Irish Unity. We urge the establishment of an inclusive Citizens' Assembly.

It is time for the Irish and British Governments to agree on a date for the Unity Referendums.

We call on the Irish diaspora to join the debate and plan for Irish Unity.

Let the people have their say. That's the democratic way.

The future is ours to write. Together we can build a new Ireland.

A home for all. A United, peaceful, and prosperous Ireland.
