

TERMS OF AGREEMENT

To assist the Swiss Government in managing the controversy arising out of allegations of Swiss activities before, during and after World War II, as well other issues affecting U.S. - Switzerland bilateral relations, the Embassy of Switzerland will pay Griffith & Rogers a fee of $35,000 per month, which will include all reasonable and necessary expenses, as well as the publication of six newsletters, which will not exceed 3,000 copies each. Out of town travel by Griffith & Rogers on behalf of the Government is not included in our fee and any expenses will be reimbursed to our office only when such a trip is approved in advance by the Embassy or Task Force. This new contract, which replaces the existing contract, will be for one year, beginning April 1, 1998, and concluding March 31, 1999. During this period, Griffith & Rogers will provide monthly activity reports to the Embassy of Switzerland in Washington, D.C. At the end of the one-year term, the relationship will be reviewed and may be extended month-to-month, revised, or terminated on terms mutually agreeable to both parties. Griffith & Rogers also agrees to consult with the Embassy regarding any possible contracts with new clients that involve issues of concern to the government. At anytime, with two months notice, either party may terminate this agreement.

Our firm recognizes that in the course of representation of the Embassy of Switzerland, we may become aware of information, practices or policies which you may want to keep confidential. Our firm agrees to maintain that confidentiality and not to disclose to any outside party such knowledge either during the period of this contract or thereafter.

By signing below, the parties are agreeing to the terms and conditions set out herein and binding Griffith & Rogers and the Embassy of Switzerland contractually to each other.
