SL Option 1: Interview Offer: Chairwoman of UAE Space Agency – for podcast
SL Option 2: Podcast: Interview w/ rising leader in space economy

Hi NAME,

I’m reaching out to see if you might be interested in having the Chairwoman of the UAE Space Agency and the Minister for Public Education and Advanced Technology in the UAE, Her Excellency Sarah Al Amiri, on an episode of PODCAST NAME?

Despite being a young country, the United Arab Emirates (UAE) quickly emerged as a leader in the space sector after it became the first Arab country and second country in the world to successfully enter Mars’ orbit on its first try. Since then, the UAE announced its ambitious mission to the Asteroid Belt.

H.E. Sarah has played a critical role in the UAE’s space achievements and growth as she oversees its space economy strategy and leads the teams on the country’s missions.

Thanks to her unique role, H.E. Sarah has interesting insights to share, including:
- The growing commercialization of the industry and what the future of space exploration will look like in 5 – 10 years;
- The strategy that underpins the Space Agency's approach to fostering high growth;
- Why and how the UAE is bringing companies from all over the world – including from the US – to work together on missions much faster than any other space agency;
- The technologies and talent needed to propel space exploration into its next phase of growth;
- And why international collaboration – between space agencies, governments and private companies around the world – is so important.

What do you think? I’m happy to discuss other topics you think might be a better fit for PODCAST NAME’s audience.

Thanks for your time and consideration, NAME. I’m really looking forward to hearing back from you.

Best,

NAME

This material is distributed by Fleishman-Hillard Inc. on behalf of the United Arab Emirates Space Agency. Additional information about Fleishman-Hillard’s work for the United Arab Emirates Space Agency is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, D.C.