CHP Representative to the United States Yurter Özcan is mentioned in Al-Monitor article about the ongoing Reza Zarrab case in New York that he has been following since the outset.

" The main opposition Republican People's Party (CHP), for its part, is not convinced by Erdogan's argument that this is a political case against Turkey. Yurter Ozcan, the CHP's representative in Washington who is following the case closely, told the Turkish media that this was a purely legal case.

"US Treasury officials have repeatedly warned Halkbank since 2013, but could not get through," Ozcan told a private Turkish channel.

He also pointed to the 2015 case against BNP Paribas, the international banking group that had to pay $9 billion in fines for circumventing sanctions, and indicated that Halkbank could face a similar situation.

Ozcan also expects the number of those indicted in this case to increase in the coming period."
