

Mehmet Ali Yalçındağ, Chairman of the Turkey-US Business Council, said: "Today's decision is an important next step on the road to renewed confidence and stability in our economy. Turkish businesses are eager to play their role in driving an exports-led recovery from the pandemic. "Our members were proud to contribute to the government's economic reform package and we look forward to sustainable reforms that will deliver greater investment, employment, production and international exports. "Our members are ready to drive growth, helping to make Turkey one of the world's top ten economies by building on our traditional strengths and innovating in new industries."
