

Kalvebod Bølge in Copenhagen. Photo: Emily Wilson Photography

Green is always good

Many of us choose to dabble with being vegan in January, and Denmark is no exception. Give green a go in January with our top 10 vegetarian and vegan restaurants. Although don't just leave it there – try them all year round!

Get full, green and happy

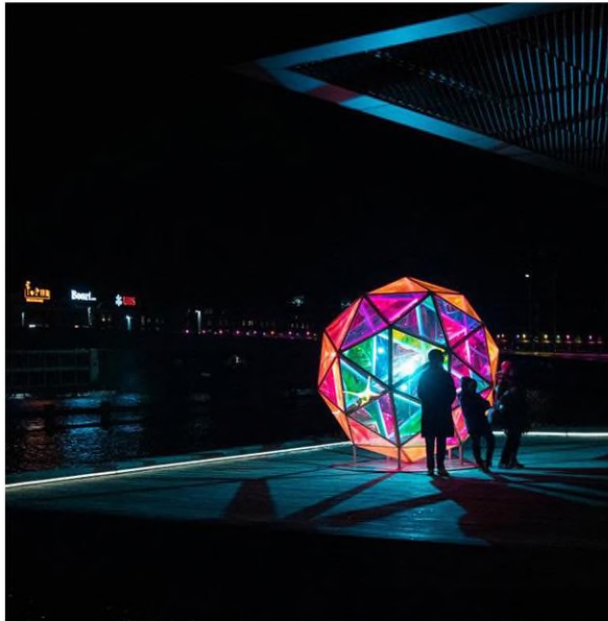

Photo: Daniel Rasmussen - Copenhagen Media Center

Denmark as a bright spot this winter

Going to Denmark during the winter? Exciting experiences don't stop just 'cus it's a little dark! How about visiting the Copenhagen Light Festival this year, which begins in February in Copenhagen? Beautiful light installations light up the sky and look fab in the darkness whilst the sun is...otherwise engaged.

Find a little light

Danish Fastelavnsboller Photo: Nicoline Lodahl Karlsen

Celebrate Fastelavn...with pastry

The smell of delicious freshly baked bread lingers in the air all year round, but in February there's a new pastry on the block. Fastelavn buns are not a new phenomenon but in recent years have enjoyed a revival. Sweet buns filled with cream race out of bakeries for four precious weeks of the year, so be sure not to miss out.

Danish bakeries are a must

Share your wonders:

VisitDenmark © 2023

Data Protection Notice_

Unsubscribe