Wednesday, October 14, 2020	10:00 AM	The International Energy Agency's study on COVID-19's effects on energy shows that COVID-19 has complicated the transition to clean energy. While carbon emissions are down due to a decrease in travel flights, there is no guarantee that the decrease is permanent. The next step is up to us. Read more from the IEA and join our virtual forum TODAY at 12pm to learn more about what the IEA looks like for energy transition. https://www.iea.org/covid19				Day of Event
