| | | | | | #OTD in Siena, Italy in 1857, #Italian artist and sculptor Giuseppe Moretti was born! Today, let's learn about one of his most famous works in the U.S. At the 1904 World's Fair, Moretti cast Vulcan, the largest cast-iron statue ever made! It served as Birmingham, Alabama's contribution to one of the largest international exhibitions designed to showcase the achievements of countries. While Moretti worked throughout the Northeast and mid-Atlantic during his time in the United States, Moretti had extensive ties to the state of Alabama. Some of his most popular works include the Mary Cahalan statue in Linn Park, the Patrick O'Reilly statue at St. Vincent's Hospital and Head of Christ. | Vulcan |

| Thursday, February 3 | 2:00:00 PM | Posted | GLOBAL | FEED | If you visit Urbino, Italy, you'll quickly realize you've stepped into a world that visibly looks like Renaissance times. Part of the reason for its incredibly preserved art, architecture and culture is how removed the city is from other parts of society. In order to catch a glimpse and dive into the culture—which inspired one of the most famous paintings in @uffizigalleries, The Duke and Duchess of Urbino Federico da Montefeltro and Battista Sforza—you have to drive through winding switchback roads and cross three entire regions of Italy! The beautiful culture of Urbino is so incredibly intact that the city was inscribed as a @UNESCO World Heritage site in 1998. https://www.cnn.com/travel/article/urbino-renaissance-town-italy/index.html | link auto-populates |
