	12:00:00 PM	Posted	GLOBAL	FEED	The eruptive activity of the formidable Mount Etna dates back 500,000 years, at least 2,700 of which have been documented. Located on the eastern coast of Sicily, Mount Etna is the most active stratovolcano in the world, erupting almost constantly! Due to its never-ending activity, Mount Etna continues to influence Earth science disciplines such as volcanology and geophysics, and the diverse range of features on the mountain—from summit craters and lava flows to the intriguing Valle de Bove depression—make the site an excellent spot for research. To protect the site, Mount Etna was inscribed as a @UNESCOworldheritage site in 2013. : Marco Bottigelli/Moment/Getty Images, Vittoriano Rastelli/The Image Bank/Getty Images, Art Wolfe/Stone/Getty Images	Feed 1-4
