CGTN America Releases: Global Action Initiative 2021: Media's Role in Responding to Climate Change

Our Day Four’s event, which will air at 7 p.m. ET, November 5, will focus on how global citizens can make a difference by reducing their carbon footprint.

WASHINGTON (PRWEB) November 05, 2021 -- CGTN America releases “Global Action Initiative - Media’s Role in Responding to Climate Change”

The third day of our “Global Action Initiative 2021 – Project Earth”, which aired at 7 p.m. ET, November 4, focused on rising sea-levels and the media’s role in responding to extreme weather.

We filmed the show on location along the Chesapeake Bay in Maryland in eastern United States. That region is a microcosm for climate change where warmer waters, extreme weather and threats to wildlife have put the area and its culture at risk.

We also discussed our ten-year record of covering the climate crisis from melting icebergs in Greenland to disappearing rain forests of the Amazon.

Next, we premiered the documentary – “Zero Hour: Climate Change in Europe” -- highlighting efforts by a new generation of scientists to find solutions as the continent is hit by droughts, floods, and tidal surges.

Our Day Four’s event, which will air at 7 p.m. ET, November 5, will focus on how global citizens can make a difference by reducing their carbon footprint. And we’ll go online to TikTok, filled with tips on how you can help save the planet and how small lifestyles changes can make a big difference.

Then we’ll play the documentary – “Zero Hour: Climate Change in Southeast Asia”, focusing on a part of the world where cities are at the highest risk from rising sea levels and floods caused by extreme weather.

For more information about the “Global Action Initiative 2021 – Project Earth”, please follow https://america.cgtn.com/gai/gai.html

This material is distributed by MediaLinks TV, LLC on behalf of CCTV. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, D.C.
Contact Information
Atirath Aich
Medialinks TV, LLC
+1 202-393-1850

Online Web 2.0 Version
You can read the online version of this press release here.
CGTN America Releases: China Vows To Open Its Economy Wider

In this 20th anniversary year of China’s accession to the WTO, President Xi said China has kept its promise to lower tariff barriers.

WASHINGTON (PRWEB) November 05, 2021 -- China has vowed to open the world’s second largest economy even wider, pledging to expand imports and “pursue balanced development of trade.”

Chinese President Xi Jinping called on the international community to advance economic globalization and reject protectionism. “We will not change our resolve to open wider at a high standard,” Xi said in his keynote speech via video to the fourth annual China International Import Expo (CIIE) underway from November 5 to 10 in Shanghai. Expressing China’s determination to “share development opportunities with the rest of the world,” Xi said: “We will not change our commitment to an economic globalization that is more open, inclusive and beneficial for all.”

China pledged to open its markets when it joined the World Trade Organization (WTO) in December 2001. In this 20th anniversary year of China’s accession to the WTO, President Xi said China has kept its promise to lower tariff barriers. “Its overall tariff rate has been cut from 15.3 percent to 7.4 percent, lower than the 9.8 percent accession commitment,” he said.

Over the past two decades, China has grown from the world’s sixth largest economy to the world’s second largest, benefitting its trading partners in the process. Exports and imports expanded in double digits in the first nine months of 2021, surging 22.7 percent and 22.6 percent, respectively, year on year.

Xi’s CIIE keynote speech underscored China’s longstanding commitment to mutual benefit in global trade. “China stands ready to work with all countries to build an open world economy, so that the spring breeze of openness will bring warmth to all parts of the world,” he said.

To read more about “China Vows to Open its Economy Wider”, click on this link: https://news.cgtn.com/news/2021-11-04/Xi-Jinping-addresses-opening-ceremony-of-CIIE-14V5bY131nv/index.html

This material is distributed by MediaLinks TV, LLC on behalf of CCTV. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, D.C.
Contact Information
Zeng Siwei
Medialinks TV, LLC
+1 202-393-1850

Online Web 2.0 Version
You can read the online version of this press release here.