erica_eatseverything I'm partnering with @arubatourism and flying to Aruba for their first ever culinary festival @autenticoaruba 🍷🍷🍷

Aruba is a melting pot of cultures, so it only makes sense how much of an array of different kinds of restaurants and foods there are on this island 🇵🇸

Top 3 highlights of the trip:

- || Finally getting to try some of @chefdiego's award winning food
- || Discovering how 🍷 the food is in Aruba and eating my heart out at Autentico
- || Meeting @chefantonia and @alchermistkate 🍷

I will 100% be returning to this island to EAT! Who's been to Aruba???

simplyminwin During my visit, I stayed at @radissonbluaruba — an affordable luxury hotel near the beach #arubaturismpartner. It was the perfect stay since the rooms are spacious, and they offer all the amenities, including a rooftop pool, gym, spa, and even a café near the lobby. It's walkable to the beach, or you can take the free shuttle. Parking at the hotel was free, which gave us even more reason to rent a car and explore the island of Aruba @arubatourism.

simplyminwin Did you know Aruba just hosted its 1st Culinary Festival? I love food festivals, and I'm partnering with @arubatourism to share one worth traveling for. @autenticocaruba is a weeklong event celebrating the island's rich and diverse culinary scene! We got to experience it all: 🍴 Chef's Table — A bucket-list experience with internationally awarded chefs 🍷 The Pavilion — A 2-day food event featuring 25+ restaurants and bars showcasing their best dishes 🍽️ Restaurant Week — Local spots offering special deals and promotions. Tag someone who would love this!

professionaltraveler • The most stunning overwater villa in the Caribbean: Aruba Ocean Villas. 🌊 #ArubaTourismPartner

AOV was the perfect accommodation for our babymoon in Aruba - peaceful, romantic, and absolutely beautiful. 🌊

We split our stay at @arubaceanvillas between two of their villas: the Penthouse Jon Jon and the Penthouse Potcho Potcho. They were both some of the largest villas we've ever stayed in, and they have everything you can think of: spacious living areas, indoor and outdoor kitchens, your own private bar, indoor and outdoor bathtubs, an infinity pool, a massage room, and more.

These villas alone are enough of a reason to visit Aruba, but of course, the island has SO much more to offer. If you're looking for a unique place to stay in the Caribbean, this is it!

Share this post with the person you want to stay here with to give them a little hint for an Aruba getaway holiday gift! 🎁

professionaltraveler • 5 best beaches in Aruba you HAVE to see when you visit. 🌊 #ArubaTourismPartner 📍 Arashi Beach - small, white sand beach with a small local restaurant and bar, and away from the crowds. It's right next to Tres Trapi, and one of the best swimming spots in Aruba, in my opinion!

📍 Tres Trapi - Right next to Boca Catalina beach, you'll find this rocky area called Tres Trapi. You'll only see a proper (tiny) beach here when the tides are low. There are steps to get in and out of the shallow water, and this is the best snorkeling spot on the island: sea turtles ahead, starfish to the right, and lots of fish to the left. Please remember to never touch or get too close to the marine life.

📍 Mangel Halto - This secluded Aruba beach is perfect for those who love sunbathing and snorkeling in calm, shallow waters. It's quiet, has plenty of shade, and is perfect for a beach picnic and watching the sunset.

📍 Baby Beach - A shallow turquoise lagoon on the southeast end of the island. The water here is really calm, so it's perfect for little kids or anyone new to snorkeling!

📍 Rodgers Beach - a narrow, white, powdery beach that is very calm and mostly frequented by locals on the weekends. It's right next to Baby Beach, but feels more like a hidden gem. There's a fun floating platform you can swim to and a pier with colorful fishing boats!

Which one of these would you go first?

#ArubaTourismPartner
Day 3 was my absolute favorite!!!

We left Aruba a couple days ago and already miss the island thanks to the Aruba Effect. Misa has been talking about those flamingos walking on the beach and the fishes she was able to spot through the clear water. Boch and I definitely miss the overall weather there so much as we felt very comfortable when we were there. A minute and half wasn't enough to describe our experience visiting Aruba, so let me know if you have any questions about traveling to Aruba with kids!

vannie.beauty • We had Aruba on our bucket list for these two things: #ArubaTourismPartner

- flamingos at turquoise beach
- cactus next to the ocean

And we're finally able to see them in real life thanks to @arubatourism! It's really interesting to drive around seeing everywhere, even next to the ocean. Today we just spent the whole day at @depalmisland! The beach was so beautiful there. We got to come close to the right on the beach. Splash pool was a hit and Misa didn't want to leave.
