BiH level leaders agreed Tuesday on a set of reform laws and appointments.

Milorad Dodik, the leader of the SNSD party and President of Bosnia's Serb-majority Republika Srpska entity, said that the coalition lawmakers in the House of Representatives will vote for three laws at a session scheduled for later today – the law on the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council, the law on the human rights ombudsman, and the law on the freedom of access to information.

According to Dodik, they also agreed that the Council of Ministers will discuss and confirm Proposal of Law on Court of BiH, and new law on foreigners, which will be then forwarded to the House of Representatives and the House of Peoples.

“With this we can give BiH a chance to get the status of negotiator (with EU) by end of the year,” Dodik said.
