Cvijanović: Internal agreement is possible if there is no international interventionism – SRNA

📅 November 3, 2025

SRNA reports:

The Serb member of the Presidency of BiH Željka Cvijanović stated today, following the UN Security Council session on the situation in BiH, that she welcomes the fact that the United States has made a shift in its foreign policy, but expressed disappointment that the EU representative showed a lack of vision regarding BiH.

“It is encouraging and pleasing that the United States has made a turn in its foreign policy and has established cooperation with Republika Srpska. As a result of that cooperation, and believing in our joint movement and agreements, we have achieved certain things that represent a good foundation,” Cvijanović told reporters in Prijedor.

She emphasized that she is particularly pleased that the United States, following the policy of President Donald Trump, will no longer interfere in the process of nation- and state-building or in the internal organization of certain nations' lives.

“When there is no such kind of international interventionism involved, you can see a chance for an internal agreement,” Cvijanović stressed.
