You have no idea how many people talk to me about moving to Hungary. I know it won't be possible on a large scale—but conservatives in America can learn a lot about what kinds of government policy is possible.

You keep asking me about the conditions of moving to Hungary. I can only encourage these noble intentions! Beautiful architecture, great wines, (almost completely) free of wokeness and (it's becoming a real plus, Western European friends will confirm) it's safe to walk at night too

I think those Conservatives are hugely needed there in the US, David, to fight the same (and different) fights we all have — however to host some temporary dissident groups must be amazing 😊

At the very least, look forward to returning next year for an extended visit. One day...
