Today, Germany celebrates its national holiday, known as "Tag der Deutschen Einheit" or #GermanUnityDay, to commemorate the reunification of East and West Germany.

This historic event took place on October 3, 1990, following the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989 and the peaceful revolution in East Germany. It marked the end of the division that had separated East and West Germany since the end of World War II and the establishment of the Federal Republic of Germany (West Germany) and the German Democratic Republic (East Germany). October 3rd is a day to celebrate the reunification and the restoration of a single, unified German state.
