#Thailand's coalition government-in-waiting leader @MFPThailand hits back & "categorically denies" #Cambodia PM #HunSen's accusations the party plans to expel Cambodian migrant workers. #MoveForward says it aims to "expand & improve" ways to hire them khmertimeskh.com/501302832/thai...

Move Forward Party Affirms No Policy to Repatriate Migrant Workers

June 7, 2023 - The Move Forward Party categorically denies reports in certain media outlets alleging that the Party has a policy to repatriate migrant workers from neighboring countries.

The party's stance is to protect the welfare and labor rights of all workers in Thailand, regardless of their nationalities. The Move Forward Party recognizes the importance of the contribution made by the migrant workforce to the economic and social development of Thailand.

Therefore, we aim to expand and improve regular pathways to facilitate the entry and employment of migrant workers in Thailand, provide them with appropriate protection, and ensure that such pathways are free from extortion, coercion, or other forms of exploitation. This approach also aids responsible Thai employers in finding convenient avenues to fulfill the much-needed human resources for the industries.

Additionally, the Move Forward Party's foreign policy attaches importance to fostering cooperation within ASEAN with a view to ensuring peace, security, and prosperity for the region. We are committed to working closely with fellow ASEAN countries to achieve a prosperous economy, good governance, and an equitable society in which the human rights of everyone are respected and protected, with human security at the top of our agenda.

About Move Forward Party:

The Move Forward Party is a political party in Thailand dedicated to promoting progressive policies and social justice. With a focus on inclusive governance and participatory democracy, the party aims to build a more equitable and prosperous Thailand for all its citizens.

Cambodia National Rescue Party calls for transparency on spoiled election ballots

Paris 17 July, 2023

Cambodia is due to hold a national election on July 21, without any significant opposition party as in 2023.

The Cambodia National Rescue Party (CNRP) was dissolved by the supreme court in 2017, and the Cambodia Party in 2023 has been refused the right to take part in nationwide polls. The authorities demanded an original registration document which they had already stated in a raid on party headquarters.

The laws which declare the election as a democratic exercise extend well beyond the fact that the opposition is banned from taking part. The run-up to the elections has been characterised by an environment of extreme repression and intimidation.

Prime Minister Hun Sen in January used Facebook to threaten violence against opposition supporters, which has led to a recommendation by Cambodia's Human Rights Watch to suspend him from the platform. In February, the politically controlled Supreme Court upheld the conviction of Cambodia's first vice president Sam Rainsy, who has been ordered to pay $52.1 million for simply commenting on well-documented abuses in the local commune elections of June 2022. In March, Sam Rainsy, the leader of the CNRP, was sentenced to 27 years in prison on a spurious charge of "traison" for which no evidence was ever produced.

Between March 18 and April 8 alone, Human Rights Watch (HRW) documented seven physical attacks carried out in broad daylight on opposition party members, some of which have been enough investigated. On May 11, Hun Sen in a public speech threatened to blow up CNRP co-founder and former leader Sam Rainsy with a Soviet era BM-21 rocket if he attempts to return to Cambodia.

The CNRP has responded by calling for voters to send their ballot papers to the absence of any guarantee in the election. The other parties on the ballot paper are all more or less aligned with the ruling Cambodian People's Party (CPP), and even if there were a single national assembly seat in the 2023 national election. This is the only way available for Cambodians to register their wish for a genuine election without facing threats or personal reprisals. In July, two opposition supporters were arrested and charged for supporting the spoiled ballot call. No evidence was given.

Hun Mani: "There is no doubt that there is transition, but one thing is sure that under CPP leadership, and having B. HUN Manet as the next Prime Minister, the dedication to continue and serve our Nation and People will never diminish, instead it's gonna be even stronger."

Mani Hun
23m ·

More than a Father...

- a loving father
- a teacher
- an outstanding leader and a role model

There are so much to say and so much to learn from - and no amount of words that can describe the countless sacrifices that 'Dad/SPM' have given into serving our Nation & People since his youthfulness until today. Some may not agree with 'Dad/SPM', a small minority (whether Khmer or foreigners) may not support 'Dad/SPM', there is no dispute on the lifetime achievements that 'Dad/SPM' along with all CPP leaders/members across the country have rendered for our beloved Nation & People.

We all have heard 'Dad/SPM' speech today (26.07.2023), this is yet another 'action' demonstrating the sacrifice, relinquishing his role as the Kingdom of Cambodia Prime Minister (although he could have continued), for the sake of long term vision so to pave way for transition that would bear the responsibility to serve our Nation and People without hesitation and without fail. There is no doubt that there is transition, but one thing is sure that under CPP leadership, and having B. HUN Manet as the next Prime Minister, the dedication to continue and serve our Nation and People will never diminish, instead it's gonna be even stronger.

More than a Father...

1. A lifetime of servitude dedicated to serving our Nation and People without a single hesitation.
2. Nation and People First, is not just words nor words that have come to be, because it sounds good, but it is from observing, learning and nurturing myself in becoming who I am today with this level of conviction and dedication.
3. A leadership style that are both visionary and pragmatic in execution according to the societal development stages since the 1980s up until now. Firm and proud and international stage, while warm with people at the lowest level of society, especially our people.

At this junction, as a Cambodian youth, I would like to show my utmost appreciation to 'Dad/SPM' along with the team/cabinet both CPP and Government who have given up your youthful yearslife dedicated to our Nation, bringing our Country out of civil war to peace, zero development to a middle low income country, a country lack of opportunity to a country with opportunity for our youth in a similar environment like other countries... there are countless achievements I can enumerate but all in all as a Cambodian youth "thank you from the bottom of our heart for your lifetime of servitude to our Nation and People. Without "You" we will not be here today. So Thank you for giving us a Cambodia that is not like 4 decades ago, for giving us the opportunity to grow under peace and stability to guide us and be a role model to us to bear your responsibilities and mission forward. The Kingdom of Cambodia will move forward with optimism, with pride, with confidence and the strength and dedication to do our utmost for the sake of our Nation and People forward. B. Net we believe in you. 🙏

Highlights from one-seat National Assembly constituencies: Monduliri's Chan Yoeun, allegedly involved in evictions of Bunong families in 2008; Pailin's Y Chhean, a former Pol Pot bodyguard whose wife is provincial governor; Oddar Meanchey's Kun Kim, a U.S.-sanctioned general.

Preah Vihear

1. Meas Sopha, CPP

Meas Sopha, 45, was a ~~senior minister~~ of special missions in the sixth mandate and in an honorary Cambodian Red Cross president in Preah Vihear. Sopha is a former general and was also Meas's ~~deputy~~ in the military as deputy commander of the armed force and commander of the army.

Monduliri

1. Chan Yoeun, CPP

Chan Yoeun, 72, was a member of parliament for Monduliri in the sixth mandate and member of the National Assembly's commission on interior, national defense and civil service. He is also a former governor of the province. Was a deputy governor of Monduliri in 2008, Yoeun, who is ~~running~~, reportedly evicted Bunong families from their land. As former governor, he defended his son-in-law who was accused of illegal logging while working as Yoeun's assistant. He was chair of the provincial People's Revolutionary Committee from 1981 to 1991.

Oddar Meanchey

1. Kun Kim, CPP

Kun Kim, 45, was a senior minister in charge of women and people with disabilities and first deputy of the National Committee for Disaster Management. Kun Kim's eldest son, Kim Bolly, is governor of Preah Vihear province.

Pailin

1. Y Chhean, CPP

Y Chhean, 71, was an incumbent member of parliament for Pailin for the sixth mandate. Chhean was a former Pol Pot bodyguard who formerly served as Pailin governor. He later chaired the provincial council and the provincial CPP, but he was removed from those positions in 2014 over allegations he embezzled $450,000. He was then transferred to deputy chief of staff for the prime minister and was also a secretary of state for the Defense Ministry. His wife, Ban Seymon, previously served as a Pailin lawmaker and is now the governor.

“The attack on Ny Nak shows that foreign governments should not delay their scrutiny of human rights developments in #Cambodia” says @hrw, demanding that new PM Hun Manet act to hold accountable those responsible. No impunity for rights violations! hrw.org/news/2023/09/1...
