

Biographies of Eritrean Blue Revolutionary Front Leadership

Biography of Kiros Asfaha

Position: Chairman

Kiros is an influential leader who used his art to express the pain of oppression inflicted by the Eritrean Regime on the people; his songs worked as a cry for self-liberation from the regime's mental shackles and a fight for freedom.

Kiros was born in Asmara, Eritrea, in 1977. His early childhood was during the dark days of the Eritrean liberation war. In 1995, Kiros joined the national service as a conscript and remained for the next twenty years. During his military service, Kiros' musical talent flourished, and his reputation grew as someone who challenged and defied the harsh treatment of conscripts by the PFDJ. He was jailed in Military detention for almost eight years at different intervals throughout his twenty-year service.

In one incident during an annual celebration, Kiros was scheduled to perform. When that was announced, the crowds roared, which dismayed Dictator Isaias Afewerki, who directly or indirectly led Isaias Afewerki's cronies to cancel the performance.

In 2015, Kiros escaped Eritrea and started to be active in Ethiopia with opposition and youth groups advocating going back to fight the regime and free Eritrea, which took place in Addis Ababa and refugee camps all over Ethiopia; he made very influential songs that were the soundtrack for the defiance and motivation to fight for freedom. In 2018, when Ethiopia and Eritrea had a brief peace, the threat of Eritrean intelligence units infiltrating Ethiopia to eliminate opposition became evident. Kiros left and sought Asylum in Italy.

Kiros maintained his activism and kept the momentum, becoming one of the first artists to write songs that kept the Blue Revolution's "Brigade Nhamdhu" youth motivated and energized.

Kiros did not limit himself to art and took the initiative to build a relationship with the Ethiopian government. In the summer of 2024, he led the team that secured official approval for Brigade Nhamdhu to operate in Ethiopia.

Kiros is fluent in Tigrinya, Amharic and Italian and basic communication in English.

Biography of Mr. Beyene Gerezgher

Position: Diplomatic Team

Mr. Beyene Gerezgher has spent over a decade inspiring thousands of young Eritreans to embrace freedom, overcome fear, and stand against Eritrea's oppressive totalitarian regime. Through his daily live broadcasts and regular seminars, he has mobilized the Eritrean diaspora and clandestinely reached audiences within Eritrea, encouraging them to advocate for democratic rights. His efforts have been pivotal in sparking youth-led movements such as the Eritrea Bright Future Movement and the Blue Revolution (Birged Nhamedu), creating domestic pressure on the Eritrean regime and drawing significant international attention.

On the international stage, Mr. Gerezgher has served as a leading representative for Eritrean justice-seekers. He has addressed legislative bodies such as the Dutch Parliament, the Swedish Parliament, and the European Parliament, shedding light on the Eritrean regime's undemocratic practices and advocating for the establishment of the rule of law in Eritrea.

In the Winter of 2023/2024, during a Blue Revolution speaking tour across five Canadian cities, Mr. Gerezgher engaged with private and government officials, including Alyssa Nunes, Canada's Deputy Director of East Africa Global Affairs. In May 2024, he participated in a U.S. tour across five major cities at the invitation of the Blue Revolution
