Hi [REDACTED] – Hope you are doing well!

Reaching out as I was looking into the series you are producing for the [REDACTED] around COP29 and would love to learn more as I work with a global CEO who might be a fit for the series—his views and initiatives very closely align with the goals of [REDACTED]. Richard Attias, CEO of the thinktank Future Investment Institute (FII) serves as an advisor to Heads of State, business executives and civic leaders looking to build influence and effect change across the public and private sector and would be a great source for the series to discuss how these relationships can really fuel change for sustainable growth.

Working with companies on the cutting edge of sustainability as well as FII's own investment arm, Richard is keen to leverage technology to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, secure a more sustainable food supply chain, develop alternative sources of energy and help communities manage the effects of climate change. He and The Institute have developed extensive research on how to unite the global investment community to achieve a more sustainable world and can speak to the following:

- Why the collective momentum and demand for change across companies, investors and citizens has yet to be leveraged at scale (estimates put green share of global stimulus between .2-.4%)

- How region-specific investment from the private and public sector, specifically in the global south, can to help bolster climate resilience as the landscape of African and South American countries continually changes in the face of climate change
- How funds can leverage AI and technological advancements to generate climate solutions that are not only environmentally sustainable, but also socially responsible across the over 1,400 open-end and exchange-traded funds with a climate related mandate as of June 2023

Do you have time to connect this week or next to talk more about the series? Would love to learn more and see where Richard might fit into the programming. Looking forward to hearing from you!

Thanks,
