Thanks [REDACTED]! This all generally sounds good. To clarify, you mentioned you're planning to use Richard's commentary for a Q&A section, right? Or would it be more for a news / trend section with Richard's commentary used to support?

Let me know and I'll come back to you!

Hi [REDACTED],

Thank you for the call earlier. I'd love to chat with Richard at some point in the next week or two. I'm particularly interested in his perspective on government-led deals — given the U.S.'s newfound appetite for those transactions — and how those deals are influencing geopolitical shifts. I think that's of particular interest given the Trump administration's interest in attracting investment from foreign governments/sources; as evidenced by the admin's swing through the Middle East earlier this year.

Let me know what you think, thanks!

Hi [REDACTED] – Hope you are doing well! I was looking into your [REDACTED] features and wondering if you were planning to do any more Q&A features similarly to the [REDACTED] section of the first newsletter?

I have a great source who straddles the finance and policy sectors who would be great to speak to some of the timely trends facing the global economy and monetary policy.

I believe you met Richard Attias, Chairman of the Future Investment Institute \(FII\) last year who has led the charge in convening global leaders for over 8 years at FII and can speak to what it means to be a 'leader of leaders' gathering global CEOs, business executives and policymakers to discuss the most pressing advancements around technology, education, healthcare and sustainability. Unlike many of his peers, Richard is someone who has occupied positions at the top of the corporate world and now as a global leader in the third sector, which he feels has given him a set of unique perspectives, including his steadfast belief in the need for the public sector to work in partnership with the private sector, which is often better placed to drive change and innovation.

As someone who is involved with facilitating government-led deals across the world, he would be a well-timed guest to speak to some of the shifting dynamics and geopolitical powers shaping the global economy. Are you planning any more Q&A features? Would love to reconnect you.

Let me know your thoughts and happy to discuss.

Thanks,
