Thanks [REDACTED] – totally understand.

The next conference is FII's flagship event in Riyadh (agenda here) – currently there are some high-level business and policy attendees, including over 10 heads of state from around the world. The CEO of the London Stock Exchange is planning to be in attendance speaking about foreign direct investment as well so there are some good opportunities to discuss how an event like this really sits at the intersection of investment opportunity and policy change, delivering actionable insights for global citizens and investors.

Perhaps we could get him on the air in early October to discuss some of the relevant topics to the UK investment / policy landscape? He could speak not only to how the conference is changing the game for foreign leaders by building bridges across borders but also how the general geopolitical environment is influencing how public investment / government bodies think about investment opportunities.

Thanks,

Hi [REDACTED],

I just want to make sure it's the right moment for both parties.

When is the next conference? And who is attending? Perhaps that would be a good idea for a [REDACTED] segment, especially if a UK government minister is attending?

In terms of the podcast, appreciate the transparency but Richard would be a standout guest. He has built platforms that have facilitated billions in deals and has a clear view into how leading investors are thinking about the global economy and sector-specific opportunities. He has a unique perspective across public and private sectors given his role counseling some of the most influential investors and heads of state worldwide.

That angle could resonate with your audience - public-private collaboration in today's global world. He's uniquely positioned to speak to where investment is flowing in today's environment of geopolitical tension, economic volatility, and rapid innovation. Other ideas:

1. Leadership in the face of AI – evolving principles, processes and culture
2. Emerging markets and what metrics he and the Institute are following to signal shifts

3. What crises have taught Richard about building institutions/platforms that endure, and how investors can spot opportunity in that volatility

Alternatively, perhaps we could discuss his joining [REDACTED] for a segment ahead of FII9, or another PRIORITY Summit? See similar segment here: <https://www.instagram.com/reel/DFYzyKdOJac/?hl=en>. Let us know if might be willing to reconsider.

Would be great to have you at a future event if you can make it work too. We will keep you in the loop on what is upcoming.

Thanks,

Hi [REDACTED],

Thanks for arranging that chat with Richard - which was fascinating.

Sadly I am fairly tied down for the rest of this year at least, so won't be able to attend any of his events outside of the UK. But would love to in the future, and am very happy to help out moderating a panel or something like that if that is what he is after. I would imagine that would be the route to which I would attend something, as opposed to attending purely out of interest, just because of how jammed my agenda is.

Forgive me, but I am not sure Richard is the right person to have on the podcast in the short term. Please don't share this with him, but what would he be on to talk about exactly?

Very best,

Hi █ – Glad we could make the connection for you and Richard this morning. We'd love to invite you to FII9 in Riyadh – more information on how to register can be found here.

Additionally, know you may not be in town, but FII is hosting a breakfast event on Friday September 19, 2025 in NYC (details attached), if you can make it. We will of course keep you in mind for other events throughout the year as well!

Perhaps the next conversation we can set up could be for your podcast itself? It would be great to do next time Richard is in London so you can connect in person. Let me know!

Thanks,

Hi [REDACTED] – Hope you had a nice weekend. Looking forward to your introduction with Richard this week. Would you be able to push the introduction to 11:30 am ET / 4:30 pm GMT? Let me know if that works and we can adjust the invite.

Also, because this is an intro, just confirming you are comfortable with it being on background?

Thanks,

Hi [REDACTED] - I work with Mr Attias as well and am picking up this thread for [REDACTED] who's on a well deserved vacation today. Sorry it's taken so long to sort this.

Any chance you can speak with Richard virtually next Tuesday, 8/19 at 3:30pm London time?

Let me know -

Hi [REDACTED],

Thank you for this.

I would be delighted to be connected to Richard and to explore the possibilities. But I wouldn't over promise in the short term. My quick take is that he wouldn't be quite right for the first few months and that it might need a little peg (e.g. alongside their big annual event) to work best?

Hi [REDACTED] – Thanks for sharing this info – it really sounds like this is going to be a great series. Wondering if you are still looking for some guests that are ingrained in the investing world in some unique ways? I work with the Future Investment Institute \(FII\), which you may be familiar with as it has drawn some big name investors over its 8 years.

Richard Attias, Chairman of the Future Investment Institute (FII) has led the charge in convening these global leaders for over 8 years at FII and can speak to what it means to be at the center of conversations with global CEOs, business executives and policymakers to discuss the most pressing advancements around technology, education, healthcare and sustainability. Unlike many of his peers, Richard is someone who has occupied positions at the top of the corporate world and now as a global leader in the third sector, which he feels has given him a set of unique perspectives, including his steadfast belief in the need for the public sector to work in partnership with the private sector, which is often better placed to drive change and innovation.

Know your podcast is really focusing on how people with interesting stories have approached investments, financial institutions and policy and Richard has a hand in all three, and more. Would love to connect you with him to talk through some of his lessons learned throughout his career and how some of the world's most pressing investment conversations are taking place on the FII stage. He would be great to discuss some recent developments from a global investment lens as well, especially as FII's European Summit just wrapped in May.

Let me know what your upcoming schedule looks like for guests – think Richard would be really valuable for the series.

Thanks,

Dear Friends,

I am delighted to announce that my new podcast is now live. On [REDACTED] Podcast with [REDACTED] [REDACTED] we will celebrate and learn from the success of the most legendary investors, business leaders and politicians in the world, aiming to provide our listeners with an edge. The initial 15 minute teaser episode is now out where I discuss with my co-creator of the podcast, [REDACTED], one of Britain's greatest investors, why we are launching the podcast and preview what is to come in the weeks ahead. You can find it here: Apple, Spotify, or wherever you get your podcasts. Or watch on YouTube.

The podcast will launch in full at the end of June / first week of July with one 30-40 minute episode per week - and I am tremendously excited about the calibre of guests who have agreed to join me to share their wisdom with us in the weeks ahead.

Please do tune in, subscribe, and ideally give a 5 star review as it makes a huge difference in the podcast being easy to find (Apple, Spotify, Amazon, Podbean, iHeart, Podchaser,). Any and all feedback is most welcome.

Very best,
