Subject: Potential Inside the [REDACTED] guest: Richard Attias, Chairman and Acting CEO, FII Institute

Hi [REDACTED],

I have been listening to some recent episodes of the podcast and might have a good guest for you. I work with Richard Attias, Chairman and acting CEO of the Future Investment Initiative Institute \(FII\) has spent more than nine years convening global business leaders, CEOs, and policymakers to tackle some of the most pressing issues across technology, education, healthcare and sustainability.

Having held senior roles at the highest levels of the corporate world before moving into global leadership in the third sector, he brings a distinctive perspective — particularly his conviction that meaningful progress depends on strong public-private collaboration. On the podcast, he could speak to:

- Global dealmaking at scale, drawing on the USD 50+ billion in signed agreements and investment pledges signed at FII9 and his role connecting markets from Riyadh to Rio, Miami to Tirana, in a fragmented global landscape.
- How Miami is rapidly becoming the capital of the global North–South deal corridor, as capital, influence, and decision-making shift between the Americas, Africa, Europe, and Asia.
- How public-private partnership drives meaningful impact through the FII Institute's four impact areas: AI & Robotics, Education, Healthcare, and Sustainability.

Think he would be a really interesting subject for the series, especially with his unique background and FII's PRIORITY Miami conference right around the corner in March. Would you be interested in connecting with Richard as a potential guest? Happy to coordinate.

Sharing a few additional details on Richard's background below my signature.

Best,

Beyond his professional work, Richard has a compelling personal story. Born into a Jewish family in

Fez, Morocco, he trained as a civil engineer and earned a master's degree in mathematics and physics from the University of Paris.
