Subject: Connect with the acting CEO of the FII Institute ahead of FII PRIORITY Miami?

Hi [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Wanted to flag a potential story opportunity tied to the city's growing role in global dealmaking as we quickly near the Future Investment Initiative \(FII\) Institute's upcoming summit: PRIORITY Miami. Focused on the Miami business, policy and investment landscape, the summit will bring together policymakers, investors, innovators, and decision-makers to examine how capital, technology, and policy can unlock sustainable and inclusive growth.

I work with Richard Attias, Chairman and acting CEO of the FII Institute, who has spent the past decade convening global CEOs, investors, and policymakers to drive large-scale investment and public-private collaboration across technology, education, healthcare, and sustainability.

A current key focus of FII's work is how Miami is emerging as a central hub in the global North-South investment corridor, as capital flows and influence increasingly move between the Americas, Africa, Europe, and Asia.

With FII's PRIORITY Miami conference taking place in March, there's a timely opportunity to explore:

- Why the future of America's economic influence may increasingly be decided in Miami; and why convening global leaders there is crucial
- How global investors and policymakers are increasingly viewing Miami as a neutral convening ground in a fragmented geopolitical landscape
- How shifts in U.S., Latin American, and Middle Eastern policy priorities are intersecting in Miami and shaping the next wave of global investment

If this is of interest, happy to coordinate an interview or provide additional context ahead of the conference.

Best,
