Appendix

Response to Item 12-Description

Province of Alberta: Alberta participated in the Governors' Coalition for Energy Security (GCES) that issued the recommendations below. Executive Summary - The United States' energy sector stands at a critical juncture. Growing electricity demand, driven by load growth, e.g., AI and advanced manufacturing, and legacy generation approaching end of economic life, requires unprecedented investment in energy infrastructure. Regulatory uncertainty continues to discourage long-term investment planning and international competition threatens American energy dominance. To discuss a way forward, government officials and industry leaders joined for three intensive workshop sessions to develop practical solutions that will secure America's energy future while supporting manufacturing competitiveness and job creation. The series of sessions convened federal agencies, staff of Coalition members, and industry stakeholders to address upstream and midstream production challenges...

Province of Saskatchewan: Saskatchewan participated in the Governors' Coalition for Energy Security (GCES). The United States' energy sector stands at a critical juncture.
